LEADERS PREDICT VICTORY FOR HUGHES

Colonel Roosevelt's Friends Wire Appeal To Rush To Chicago Before It Is Too Late—Political Prophets Foresee Landslide New York Son.

Chicago, June 7.—Former Senator Jackson, of Maryland, Republican national committeeman from that state, tonight sent a telegram to Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay urging him to come to Chicago in the interest of harmony and announcing he would do his utmost in case of an acceptance to have Mr. Roosevelt given the privilege of the convention floor.

Mr. Jackson's telegram reads: "The national interest demands the complete reunion of the Republican party which unhappily divided in nineteen twelve. I believe this can be accomplished by a more perfect understanding between you and the Republican convention now assembled. I therefore most earnestly urge you to come to Chicago immediately, address this convention, and to make common cause in our deliberations. If you will indicate your willingness to take this course I will use my utmost endeavors to secure for you the privilege of the convention floor."

Chicago, June 7.—More political leaders are predicting the nomination of Justice Charles Evans Hughes tonight than at any time since the Republican convention began to assemble. They declare that unless the accumulation of overwhelming circumstantial evidence proves false to the situation in its true light, the nomination of the justice will come sooner than has been predicted. The men who take this view are practical politicians who do not make estimates unless they are based on careful canvass of the delegates.

The situation is illustrated best by the fact that conferences between the leaders to discuss the availability of different candidates practically have ceased indicating their belief that the delegates have reached a decision to nominate Justice Hughes.

Four days of constant effort and persistent effort to bring the two parties together in which the personality of the nominee was subordinated to harmony, failed to bring the results desired and the trend from the outset was definitely toward the nomination of Justice Hughes. Had Colonel Roosevelt announced earlier in this period that he would not support the justice, the leaders were prepared to turn to anyone of the regular Republican candidates.

Colonel Remains Silent
The Colonel remained silent and because the managers of other candidates had fostered the Hughes boom for the purpose of eliminating Roosevelt as a possibility, it grew prodigiously and even combination of the favorite sons was powerless to check it. Justice Hughes thus naturally became the choice of practically all delegates instructed for others. They became eager to go to him as soon as they could secure release from their badges.

It seems practically certain that they again nominate Roosevelt as their chief standard bearer and it is not at all unlikely that Governor Hiram Johnson also will be drafted, so that their ticket will be the same as in 1912—Roosevelt and Johnson.

The more conservative representatives of the Progressive party hope to forestall action in their convention until Friday.

The effort to delay making a nomination is because a few of the leaders still profess that there is some prospect of reaching an agreement with the Republican managers.

Harding Sounds Keynote
The Republican national convention assembled in the Coliseum today heard a keynote speech delivered by Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, perfected an organization and adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. It all took just two hours and lack of demonstrations or outbursts of any kind and its strict attention to the business in hand was reminiscent of the Philadelphia convention in 1900 that nominated McKinley and Roosevelt.

For one hour and twenty minutes Senator Harding, the temporary chairman, delivered a carefully prepared speech, punctuated in the telling points with brief periods of hand clapping and applause, but at no time did a demonstration occupy more than half a minute by the watch.

The convention was twenty-five minutes behind the hour arranged for its assembly, but when Chairman Hillis of the Republican national committee, brought down his gavel at 11:25 o'clock it moved quietly and with precision until adjournment at 1:23.

The assembling hour was set for 11 o'clock, but there was no semblance of order at that time and no one made any pretense of securing it. The delegates stood about the floor and talked the spectators overflowed into the spaces reserved for the delegates and hundreds of seats on the floor and in the galleries were empty. Finally Chairman Hillis gave signs of calling the convention to order and the uniformed police began moving about urging the delegates into their places.

Finally at 11:25 o'clock, Chairman Hillis brought down the gavel with three resounding whacks and quiet set tied down over the big hall.

"The hour of 11 o'clock having arrived and a quorum being present," said he, "the convention will be in order. Paraphrasing a remark made by the late President McKinley, this is a year—whatever may have been true of past years—when politics is patriotism and patriotism is politics. Therefore the audience will please rise and sing two verses of America."

ROBERT G. LITER

Famous Mason County Horseman Died at His Home in West Virginia.

Robert G. Liter, born at Mayslick in 1861, died at his home in Clarkburg, W. Va., Monday. He was of that famous race horse family of Liter of this county, his brother being the late Crutch Liter, known best as the most graceful rider that ever sat in a saddle, and his mother was a Miss Pogue.

Robert Liter, after growing to young manhood, left this county and went to West Virginia, he being at Point Pleasant for some years, but later going to Clarkburg, where he established a horse business that became famous for its fine stock. While trying out a young horse seven months ago he was thrown from the sulky and sustained injuries from which he never recovered and at the time of his death he was one of the most prominent citizens of Clarkburg.

He leaves many relatives in this county, among them being Mr. William Pogue of Mayslick, a cousin.

WE ARE GLAD THAT THE MORNING SCANDAL HAS AN EXALTED OPINION OF ITSELF

This morning's Independent says: The Ledger in yesterday's issue uses some black face to tell the public that our error in a news item furnished a "good joke." If we were to take the time and space to exploit all of the Ledger's errors we would have little space for anything else. It is enough to say that the "Bean Shooter" does not furnish an occasional joke by making an error—it's always a joke. It's a great wonder that the "Noon extra" did not fall for our error and reprint it this time as they have often done before. Some one must have put them next just before going to press, as for several years The Independent has furnished the Ledger their news.
